

» WORLD VIEW OF THE FORTNIGHT

« To all the bettors: I'm a mum before I'm an athlete. The way you talk to women – to mothers – is shameful.” – Ukrainian tennis player Elina Svitolina spoke about the deluge of hateful abuse she received online from frustrated gamblers after losing a match at the Canada Open. »

« I believe there will be a woman running under four minutes in the next generation or our generation, and that's why I keep going, keep training. If it does not come my way, it will be someone one day.” – Faith Kipyegon »

1st

Miyu Yamashita won the Women's Open by two shots to claim the first major title of her career, holding off Charley Hull and Minami Katsu to become the fourth Japanese player to win a major in the past two years. The 24-year-old carded an overall score of 11-under at Royal Porthcawl, sinking three birdies on the front nine. She stayed steady on the back nine, surviving a late stumble with her first bogey of the day on the par-four 17th.

91

Brazilian javelin thrower Luiz Maurício da Silva surpassed Neeraj Chopra (90.23 m at the Doha Diamond League) to achieve the second-best mark of the year, with an attempt of 91 m at the 2025 Brazilian Athletics Trophy in São Paulo. Luiz turned heads with his first throw — his personal best of 90.68 m surpassing his previous record of 86.62 m — and then improved on it to win the title. In the 2025 season, he is second only to Julian Weber, who won the Doha Diamond League with a throw of 91.06 m.

PROUD POSSESSION

Canadian teenager Victoria Mboko staged a stunning comeback to defeat four-time Grand Slam champion Naomi Osaka 2-6, 6-4, 6-1, claiming her maiden WTA 1000 title at the Canadian Open 2025. In the men's singles, American fourth seed Ben Shelton battled from a set down to clinch his first ATP Masters 1000 title, defeating Karen Khachanov of Russia 6-7(5), 6-4, 7-6(3). REUTERS