

PSV Eindhoven becomes Dutch champion

PSV Eindhoven was crowned Dutch champion for the 25th time and it was the club's first title since 2018. Peter Bosz's men made sure of the Eredivisie trophy with two games to spare via a 4-2 win over Sparta Rotterdam at the Philips Stadion. Veteran Dutch striker Luuk de Jong has been key for PSV's success this season and his 27 goals have made him the league's joint top-goalscorer.

Barcelona W wins fifth straight Liga F in quadruple bid

Unbeaten Barcelona Women clinched a fifth consecutive Liga F title with a 4-1 win at Granada as it closed in on a potential quadruple. Barcelona has already lifted the Spanish Super Cup and will face Real Sociedad in the Copa del la Reina final on May 18 before the crunch clash with rival Lyon in the Champions League final on May 25 in Bilbao.

Leicester City and Ipswich Town win promotion

Leicester City claimed the Championship title with a 3-0 victory over Preston North End and was promoted back into the English top flight after facing relegation last season. Ipswich Town, too, achieved promotion to the Premier League for the first time in 22 years after beating Huddersfield Town on the final day of the Championship regular season. Ipswich (the team's Harrison Clarke celebrates above) defeated Huddersfield 2-0 to finish on 96 points, six ahead of third-placed Leeds United.
